

Invitation: Climate Change and Federative Governance

Canadian Roundtable, Montreal, 12 September, 2019

You are cordially invited to participate in the Canadian roundtable on climate change and federative governance.

The Forum of Federations in collaboration with Government of Quebec and the Université du Québec à Montréal is bringing together scholars and practitioners to participate in a roundtable discussion on climate change and federative governance in Canada.

This roundtable has three principal objectives. First, it aims to take stock of lessons learned in the development and implementation of climate mitigation and adaptation policies in Canada's federal system of governance. Second, it seeks to understand the opportunities and challenges that exist for provinces to act as incubators and laboratories of policy development in climate governance in Canada. Third, it will review the range of mechanisms and practices that can be used to foster cooperation, enhance learning, and catalyze effective climate action across multiple levels of governance in Canada.

The insights generated through this roundtable will form the basis of a report that will be subsequently released by the Forum of Federations and shared with policy-makers, government officials, and scholars in Canada.

What: Climate Change and Federative Governance: Canadian Roundtable

Where: Maison du développement Durable, Montréal, Québec, Canada

When: September 12, 2019

If you are able to participate, or would like further information on the Canadian roundtable please contact George Stairs: stairs@forumfed.org

The Forum of Federations is a global network that works with scholars and practitioners to generate and disseminate knowledge on public policy questions relating to federal and decentralized systems of governance around the world.