Forum of Federations

The Global Network on Federalism and Devolved Governance

► STRATEGIC PLAN 2018-2023

PREPARED BY LIAM WHITTINGTON,
HUSSEIN AMERY & MARIANE ARSENAULT

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Forum of Federation's Five-Year Strategic Plan establishes the overall aims for the work of the organization for the period from 1 April 2018 to 31 March 2023.

It presents the goals and strategic objectives the Forum wishes to achieve directly related to its mission of strengthening inclusive and responsive governance, including pluralism and gender equality, in federal, decentralized, and transitioning countries.

The Strategic Plan is part of a process by which the Forum is refining the definition of its work, its mission, and its institutional objectives. The process is holistic and participatory, with a renewed emphasis on enhanced monitoring, evaluation and reporting by results. This approach is accompanied by a philosophy of providing unique and specialized expertise to those the Forum engages with, while demonstrating "value for money" to partners and donors.

Since its founding the Forum has, through its unique global network, brought the world's leading experts in federal and decentralized systems together with the "practitioners" of government: elected officials, civil servants, and political operatives. The Forum supports the development of practical solutions to federal and decentralized governance challenges, and facilitates understanding of multilevel governance among stakeholders, including civil society. This process brings clarity to how the Forum defines itself and what it is working towards. The former is expressed in the following self-definition statement.

The Forum is an international organization that develops and shares comparative expertise on the practice of federal and decentralized governance through a global network.

The statement which defines the Forum's underlying motivation for being in business, the new Mission Statement, spells out the contribution to society that the Forum aspires to make.

The mission of the Forum is to strengthen inclusive and responsive governance, including pluralism and gender equality, in federal, decentralized, and transitioning countries.

The Plan reinforces the two primary areas of Forum activity: Policy Programs and Development Assistance Programs (DAP). It establishes four distinct goals for the current plan period and seven strategic objectives, the achievement of which will facilitate progress with regard to the desired results.

The impact of the Forum's work will be measured by its new results-based monitoring and evaluation system developed in parallel. This will determine the extent to which the organization is meeting its mandate as expressed by its Mission Statement.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> The Strategic Plan does not include objectives relating to the corporate development of the Forum (i.e. funding, human resources, number of contracts attained etc.), but focuses on the activities of the Forum in relation to its overall mission.

HISTORY OF THE FORUM OF FEDERATIONS

The Forum was established by the Government of Canada. The inaugural International Conference on Federalism held in 1999 at Mont Tremblant, Quebec, Canada led to the founding of the Forum as an institution based in Ottawa. Four consecutive International Conferences were subsequently held in Switzerland, Belgium, India, and Ethiopia.

Following the 2005 Conference held in Brussels, a number of countries joined the Forum as funding partners, establishing it as a membership-based international organization.

As of 2017, ten governments had signed agreements as partners of the Forum and are represented on the Forum's Strategic Council and Board of Directors, supporting the activities of the organization and providing expertise. These countries are Australia, Brazil, Canada, Ethiopia, Germany, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Pakistan, and Switzerland. Over the years the Forum has expanded the scope of its work from established federal countries to include nation states in post-conflict situations adopting federal forms of governance and those involved in processes of devolution and decentralization. Growth led to the expansion of the organization to a range of countries around the world. As of December 2017, the Forum had field offices and/or representation in Brazil, Ethiopia, Germany, India, Jordan, Morocco, Myanmar, Nepal, Pakistan, and Tunisia.

FORUM MEMBERSHIP AND STRUCTURE

THE ORGANIZATION DEFINED

The Forum of Federations is concerned with the contribution that federalism and multilevel governance can make to the consolidation of democracy. The Forum supports governments around the world to help develop governance solutions in multilevel systems. The organization's core area of specialization is federalism. However, Forum expertise is increasingly sought across the range of multilevel systems, including in decentralized and devolved countries. The transferable nature of experiences of federal governance practice provides a body of knowledge which supports the development of better multilevel government.

The Forum's work in federal and multilevel governance contributes to enhancing the quality and coherence of public policy, thereby improving the effectiveness of both public service delivery and implementation of national, regional and local development strategies. Its capacity building work covers many aspects of multilevel governance and reaches a wide range of stakeholders, facilitating the development, transfer, and sharing of knowledge at all levels of society. The Forum's activities support national, regional, and international development efforts to create more inclusive and peaceful societies with responsive governments that meet the needs of citizens. The Forum also assists in democratic consolidation in states or regions in post-conflict situations.

The Forum

"The Forum is an international organization that develops and shares comparative expertise on the practice of federal and decentralized governance through a global network."

---

The Mission of the Forum

"The mission of the Forum is to strengthen inclusive and responsive governance, including pluralism and gender equality, in federal, decentralized, and transitioning countries."

The Potential of Federalism and Multilevel Governance

The Forum operates on the principle that federal and other decentralized and devolved forms of government can offer solutions to intractable governance challenges posed in and by diverse societies. By allowing varying degrees of self-determination within a larger national whole, multilevel systems provide stakeholders with a sense of agency and control over the governance of their own lives while maintaining the advantages of shared government for general and common purposes.<sup>2</sup>

Multilevel systems establish mechanisms and processes for the recognition of minority rights and functions to compensate for the deficiencies of traditional (often majoritarian) constitutional principles which cannot suitably deal with diversity.<sup>3</sup> They enable greater coordination for equitable service delivery and economic prosperity. They can facilitate more inclusive societies in which linguistic, cultural, religious, and ethnic differences are recognized and valued within a single state. Federal and decentralized governance offer a variety of models and mechanisms through which governments can accommodate the varying needs and desires of citizens while increasing the legitimacy of the state in the eyes of the population.<sup>4</sup>

Through providing the means to accommodate diversity, multilevel systems thus facilitate more inclusive, responsive and thereby effective government. Effective government is crucial to the establishment of the peace and stability necessary for economic prosperity and social cohesion which improves the lives of people living within those societies. The Forum's work therefore aims to support the development of multilevel governance systems around the world through which these improvements can be realized.

Forum Priorities

The Forum has identified a number of priorities for its work over the next five years. They can be seen as cross-cutting concerns which the Forum will strive to work towards both through and within its activity. These priorities have been identified on the basis of a thorough consideration of the needs and aims of the Forum and its stakeholders, and the current and anticipated future direction of the governance development landscape.

CORE COMPETENCIES OF THE FORUM

The Forum is truly international in nature, working with stakeholders at all levels in countries in North and South America, Africa, Europe, Asia, and Australasia. A key component of the Forum's work is facilitating the sharing of experiences between stakeholders from different multilevel governance systems.

The Forum Advantage

The Forum has a practical, problem-solving approach to achieving results. Since its founding nearly two decades ago, it has supported governments and citizens around the world through capacity building and the provision of expertise and impartial practical education.

The Forum Advantage: Hands-on Experience and High-level Expertise

---

The Forum brings the world's leading experts together with the "practitioners" of government: elected officials, civil servants, and political operatives. The Forum's direct relationship with governments on each continent makes it uniquely placed to promote intergovernmental learning by working in tandem with its partner governments.

Alongside its work with key governance practitioners, the Forum also supports civil society stakeholders, enhancing understanding and building the capacity of citizens to operate in multilevel systems. # THE FORUM'S AREAS OF EXPERTISE

Models of multilevel governance

Knowledge creation

Areas of Activity

The Forum has two areas of activity: Policy Programs and Development Assistance Programs (DAP).

Policy Programs are built around thematically based or sectoral research projects resulting in the development of cutting-edge comparative knowledge addressing both structural as well as operational questions/issues. Typically focusing on priority issues for the Forum's partner governments, these activities are either funded through the organization's core funding or through third parties. Policy Programs fall under one of three broad thematic areas:

Governance & Service Delivery

Programs addressing policy issues in areas such as:

- Education
- Health Care
- Intergovernmental Relations
- Fiscal Relations and Revenue Sharing
- Local Government
- Centralization Vs. Decentralization
- Multilevel Politics of Trade

Environment

Programs addressing environmental issues in areas such as:

- Climate Change
- Natural Resource Management
- Water Management

Constitutional Issues and Diversity & Inclusion

Programs addressing issues of multilevel governance structures and participation in governance such as:

- Constitutional Interpretation
- Constitutional Reform
- Gender Equality
- Territorial Cleavages
- Indigenous Policies
- Youth
- Minority Rights
- Language

The Forum uses the following criteria in determining the focus of its Policy Programs. Forum Policy Programs must:

- Be relevant to the Forum's partner countries.
- Address 'real world' concerns with a focus on developing innovative and problem-oriented approaches.
- Fill knowledge gaps and contribute to developing sound conceptual understanding of the underlying patterns and processes of federalism, decentralisation, and multilevel governance and policy-making.
- Be comparative, inter-disciplinary, and participatory, bringing together scholars and practitioners from different world regions and sectors.
- Inform the Forum's Development Assistance activities (where possible) by identifying themes relevant to both developed and emerging federations (and nations with developing multilevel governance systems).
- Support Sustainable Development Goal 16 and contribute to the achievement of the Forum's strategic goals.

The specific sector priorities for the Forum's Policy Program activities in a given year are elaborated within its Annual Plan. Policy Program activities range from the organization and delivery of workshops, conferences, and presentations, to the development and production of publications and other learning tools and knowledge products. The comparative knowledge produced as a result of Policy Research Programs is utilized and leveraged where appropriate in DAP activities.

Through its Policy Programs, the Forum develops its network of multilevel governance experts, and acts as a hub for knowledge exchange between researchers and governance practitioners globally. In the development of its network, and particularly its Policy Program activities, the Forum aims to partner with the leading academic and governmental research institutes on federal and decentralized governance in countries around the world. In leveraging the Forum network, Policy Programs are thus uniquely able to combine theoretical knowledge of the practice of multilevel governance with practical experience. They also provide and develop invaluable comparative international experiences supporting both the development of solutions to multilevel governance challenges, and the overall body of knowledge in the field.

Development Assistance Programs (DAP) encompass a wide range of activities related to strengthening inclusive societies, gender equality, peace, and responsive and effective governance through supporting federalization, decentralization, and devolution processes in transitioning states. These programs focus on building capacity in multilevel governance among stakeholders. The Forum's key fields of competence in providing development assistance expertise include:

- Development and implementation of multilevel governance structures/arrangements
- Constitutional interpretation and adjudication at federal and regional levels
- Sector-specific multilevel governance
- Strengthening systems of Intergovernmental Relations
- Developing and increasing intellectual capital on multilevel governance
- Women's participation and leadership in multilevel governance
- Inclusive multi-stakeholder policy development
- Increasing stakeholder understanding and awareness of multilevel governance structures/processes/procedures, and building their capacity to participate in federal, decentralized, and devolved models.

In recent years, the Forum has delivered DAPs in Ethiopia, Iraq, Libya, Myanmar, Nepal, Nigeria, Pakistan, the Philippines, Somalia, South Sudan, Sri Lanka, Sudan, Tunisia and Yemen.

As with its Policy Programs, the Forum uses a series of criteria in determining where it implements Development Assistance initiatives. Development Assistance Programs are implemented in contexts in which:

- Demand for Forum activities is driven either by a recipient or donor government.
- There is a political or reform process to which Forum activities can provide useful support.
- There is a receptivity to principles and practices of federal and decentralized governance among stakeholders.
- There is an opportunity to support Sustainable Development Goal 16 and contribute to the achievement of the Forum's strategic goals.

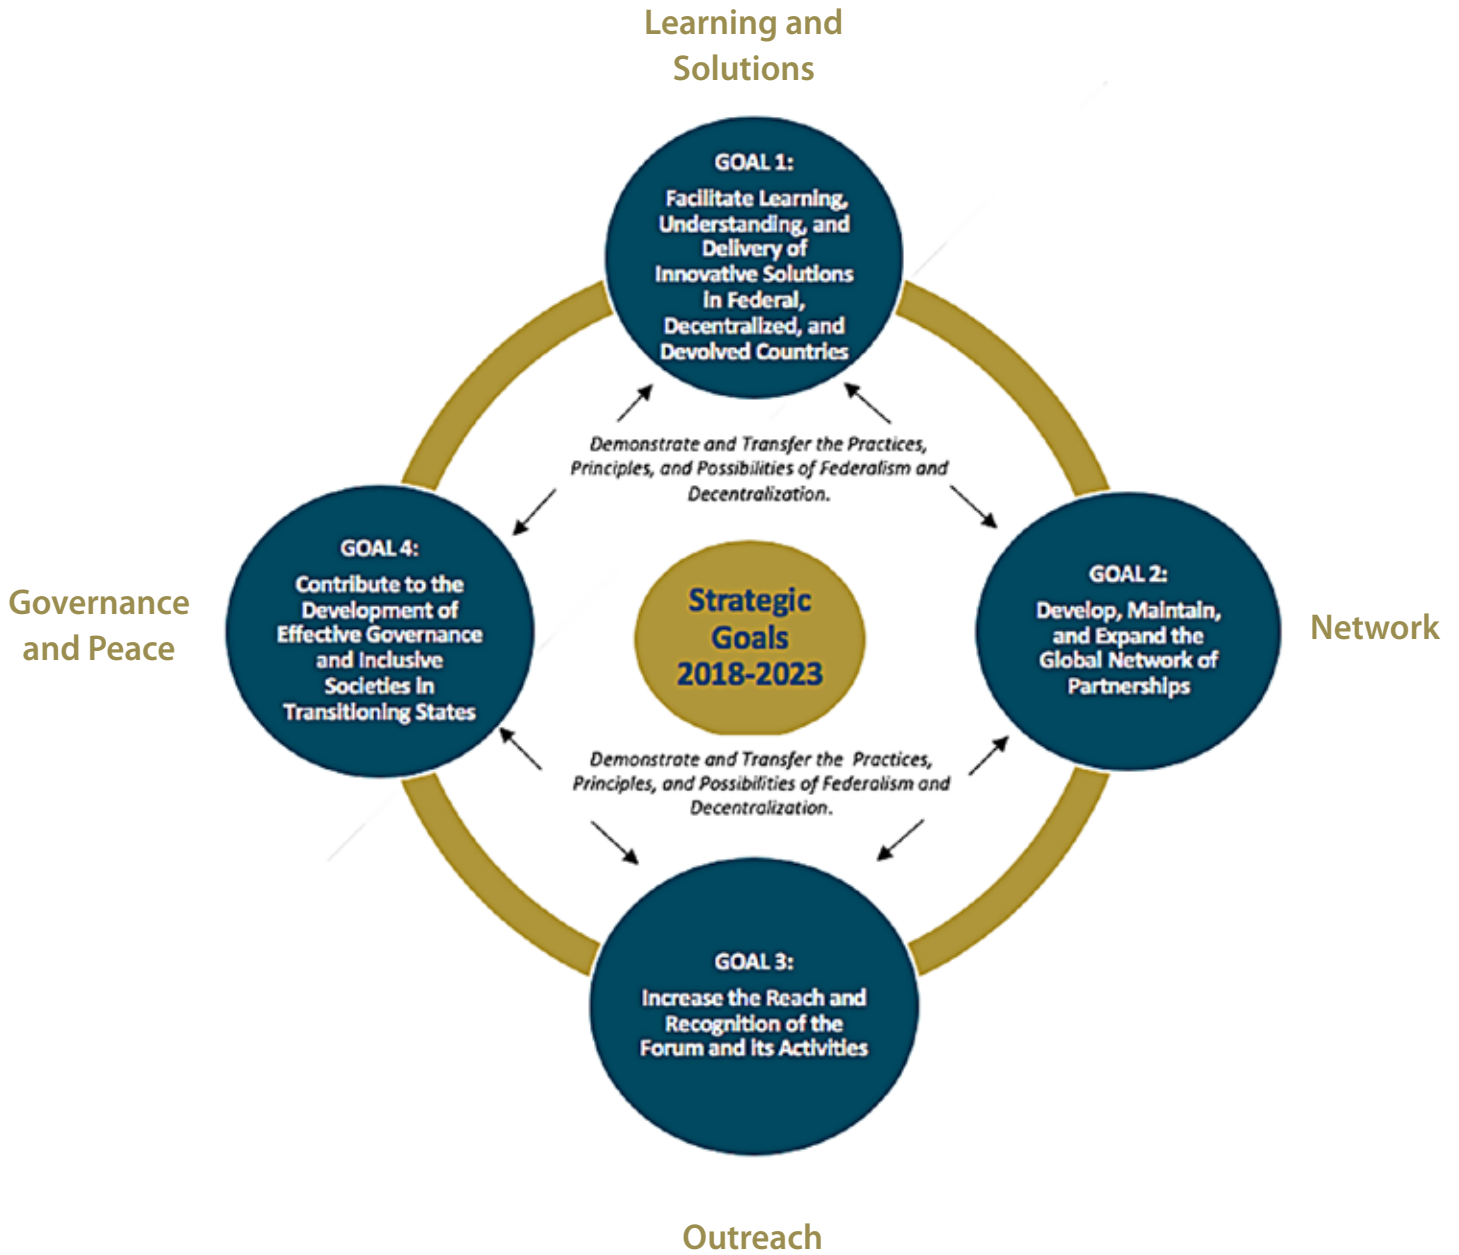

Policy and Development Assistance Programs are mutually reinforcing and inform one another. The intellectual capital and expert resources generated as a result of Policy Programs are utilized in Development Assistance Programs. The knowledge acquired on emergent practice in the development of multilevel governance structures in transitioning states as a result of DAP provides invaluable perspectives to inform and supply new areas of inquiry for Policy Program activities. The leveraging and interlinkage of the two areas of Forum activity provide real world and cutting edge insight in the work of the organization.

The Forum views Policy and Development Assistance programs/activity as mutually complementary, and equally important, areas of its work. They support the development of both governance knowledge and applied practice in federal, decentralized, and transitioning systems. The development, curation, and dissemination of comparative knowledge on federal and decentralized governance is at the heart of the work of the Forum. The Forum Executive Team undertakes a regular assessment of organizational capacity in relation to prospective programs and workload. Over the next five years, the Forum will continue to strike a balance between its two areas of activity to ensure that the organization delivers programs which are most valuable to its stakeholders, and make an important contribution to governance development.

STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK

- Raising awareness of the Forum's expertise among key global organizations and institutions working in transitioning state support;
- Continuously improving Forum activities through incorporation of lessons learned and feedback from stakeholders and beneficiaries;
- Actively pursuing new and diversified sources of funding;
- Establishing gender inclusivity as one of the key pillars of Forum work, and incorporating it into all activities.

THEORY OF CHANGE

The Forum is an international organization that develops and shares comparative expertise on federal and decentralized governance through a global network.

The Mission of the Forum is: To strengthen inclusive and responsive governance, including pluralism and gender equality, in federal, decentralized, and transitioning countries.

Pathway to Change: Central to the Forum's pathway to change is the creation, curation, and transfer of knowledge on federalism and decentralization to governance stakeholders. Through knowledge transfer, Forum Policy and Development Assistance programs enhance the capacity of stakeholders, and enable them to apply their acquired knowledge in their respective functions in the governance process. The application of knowledge facilitates improved multilevel government institutions, processes, and practice, and the development of sustainable solutions to governance challenges in federal, decentralized, and transitioning systems.

The pathway to change is underpinned by the global network. Through its network the Forum assembles and marshals the knowledge, expertise, and intellectual capital required to support the pathway to change that leads to the organization's desired ultimate outcome.

The Forum's Pathway seeks to deliver results at multiple levels:

- Capacity changes in knowledge, attitudes, and skills at the first level where the Forum works with governance practitioners and civil society;
- Behaviour Changes at the second level where governments are effected, and;
- Improved well-being at the highest level which delivers direct benefits to society.

The Forum Theory of Change

The Forum supports stakeholders to overcome key governance challenges faced by governments in federal, decentralized and transitioning countries around the world. Limited knowledge and understanding among governance stakeholders of the principles and advantages of federal and decentralized governance, and a lack of curation of academic knowledge for application in policy, inhibit government effectiveness. This knowledge gap is reflected in and contributes to government which is insufficiently responsive to the needs of citizens and lacking in relation to inclusiveness. Governance stakeholders encountering these issues seek solutions to the challenges they present, and the work of the Forum is therefore fundamentally demand-driven.

As an understanding of national contexts in which governance processes are situated is crucial in any intervention which aims to effect change, Forum programs are designed following a comprehensive assessment of the circumstances in which they will be implemented. Through situational analysis, stakeholder consultation, and working with local partners, the Forum tailors its programs effectively to the needs of beneficiaries to which it is providing support.

The Forum draws on its unique, international network of multilevel governance expertise to develop and implement its Policy and Development Assistance programs. Comprised of the Forum's government partners, federalism and decentralization experts, governance practitioners, academics, universities, and a range of civil society and non-governmental organizations, the Forum network enhances and supports program activities.

The Forum provides support in domains fundamental to governance development in multilevel systems. It specialises in areas such as: Diversity and Inclusion, including gender, in governance; Intergovernmental relations; Constitutional and Institutional design and development; Fiscal arrangements, methods, and processes; and Local government and service delivery.

Programs include a range of intervention mechanisms implemented to effect change, which include: the production and dissemination of knowledge products; modern adult learning techniques and training; public education and awareness raising; and convening dialogue processes involving key stakeholders. The comparative methodology and the key principle of “Learning From Each Other” permeates all programs, and is facilitated through the Forum’s network.

Pathway

- Through the implementation of program activities, the Forum creates, curates, and transfers expert comparative knowledge on multilevel governance to target stakeholders.
- The transfer of knowledge increases the awareness and understanding of multilevel governance models, approaches and options among stakeholders. (Enhanced Capacity)
- Utilising their enhanced capacity in multilevel governance, stakeholders apply the acquired knowledge in the exercise of their governance functions (at national, subnational, and local levels). (Behavioural Change)
- The application of knowledge in the exercise of governance functions leads to the development of improved multilevel government institutions, processes, and policies, as well as the development of sustainable solutions to pertinent challenges.
- Improved multilevel government is able to more effectively address the needs of its citizens, account for linguistic, cultural, religious and ethnic diversity, and implement equitable service delivery processes. (Improved well-being)
- Ultimately, the change induced through the pathway, and the governance improvements engendered, contribute to the ultimate outcome the Forum seeks: Inclusive and responsive governance, including pluralism and gender equality, strengthened in federal, decentralized, and transitioning countries.

At all stages of the change pathway, from the creation, curation, and transmission of knowledge, to the absorption and internalization of knowledge by beneficiaries, through beneficiaries’ application of that knowledge in the exercise of their functions, to the changes in governance effected as a result of that application, experiential learning is captured in a feedback loop facilitated by the Forum network and comparative approach. This feedback loop supports organizational learning, providing new comparative knowledge and experiences to inform and enrich Forum programming, alongside contributing to building the overall body of knowledge on federal and decentralized governance. The expansion and development of the network through the implementation of activities further enhances and brings value to Forum programming.

While increasing the knowledge and understanding of multilevel governance among stakeholders is fundamental to the development of more inclusive and responsive governance, the Forum recognizes that the knowledge is only one factor which determines the practice of governance. The crucial role that factors such as power and incentives can play in shaping both the exercise of governance functions, who is able to participate in governance processes, cannot be overlooked. Thus, the Forum Theory of Change assumes that the government environment and political context in which activities are implemented are conducive to the development of more inclusive and responsive governance. The assumptions which underpin the Forum Theory of Change are detailed below.
